- We're halfway through the week. Tying into our September theme of Empathy, remember that being empathetic isn't just about feeling bad for someone—it's about stepping up to support them. In relation to Suicide Awareness Month, showing empathy means noticing when a friend seems quieter than usual, checking in with a simple 'Are you okay?', and actually listening without judgment. Small acts of care can make a massive difference in saving a life. Reach out, check in, and lift each other up today!"
